This year the Music Chapel Festival is dedicated to the music of Ludwig van Beethoven. During six days, the music of the great German composer will fill the building of Flagey with six orchestras (Le Concert Olympique, Orchestre Philharmonique Royal de Liège, Orchestre de Chambre Nouvelle Europe, Sinfonia Varsovia, Lille National Orchestra, Brussels Philharmonic) and one choir (Octopus Symphony Chorus) under the direction of six different conductors (Jan Caeyers, Laurence Equilbey, Nicolas Krauze, Krzysztof Penderecki, Jean-Claude Casadesus and Michel Tabachnik).

Famous artists such as pianist and Master in residence at the Music Chapel Maria João Pires, the violist Miguel da Silva, the baritone Dietrich Henschel and Music Chapel alumni as well as the pianist Plamena Mangova, will share the stage with the young soloists in residence at the Music Chapel, following our now well-established concept of companionship. Among others, the public will discover Ashot Khachatourian, Kaito Kobayashi, Lilit Grigoryan, Nathanael Gouin, Julien Brocal, Harriet Langley, Lidy Blijdorp, Liya Petrova, singers of the enoa network, and many others (more than 30 young soloists are participating in this year's festival). The Equinox Children's choir, the social project initiated by Maria João Pires, will also be present on the stage of Studio 4.

With at least two concerts a day (up to four concerts a day on Wednesday, Friday and Saturday), the program is a genuine "Beethoven marathon", since the composer's complete concertos will be performed (violin, piano, triple), as well as his great choral work (Choral Fantasy), some of his famous symphonies, his chamber music (Archduke trio, Ghost trio, violin, cello and piano sonatas), and his vocal pieces, during the public master classes and the concert given by Dietrich Henschel. This Beethoven program will be highlighted by the presence of the famous Polish composer Krzysztof Penderecki, who will conduct two of his most beautiful pieces for orchestra.

Join us during the first week of December for this unforgettable series of Beethoven concerts.

On the Fest'Off side of the Music Chapel Festival, many events are organized around Beethoven this year. First, thanks to the collaboration with Cinematek, there will be a series of Beethoven-related movies in the cinema theater of Flagey. Among them, Kubrick's most famous and controversial movie A Clockwork Orange will be screened in Flagey for the first time. The Tuesday screening at 5:30 p.m. will be introduced by a public debate with various musicians on the use of Beethoven's music for this film.

Every day at 7:30 p.m. a round table featuring a number of musicians will introduce the concert and unveil a side of Beethoven's talent to the public. These live talks will be open to everyone and will help the public get to know Beethoven's art and allow them to meet the great musicians who will be playing during the festival.

Children will also have their share of fun and discoveries: with the workshops organized around the Ghost trio "Beethoven et les fantômes" which will make them discover the language of signs, the five senses, the life and art of Beethoven, and finally put them around the musicians on the stage to listen to the beautiful trio. What a nice way to spend a Wednesday afternoon.

The young public will also have their special evening: for the MYchapel and the Artists Village, the final concert will be followed by a crazy party where Beethoven will be remixed by DJx. This will prove to them that the art of the German composer is still very much alive, even in electro and pop music. Finally, a workshop around "Beethoven and wine" will be organized on Thursday night for those wishing to discover Beethoven's fatal passion for wines: wine tasting and music: what more needs to be said?

Live broadcast on Musiq'3 and live streaming on our website of the concert with Jan Caeyers and Le Concert Olympique, with pianist Ashot Khachatourian (Monday 1 December).

Live broadcast on Klara of the concert with Krystof Penderecki, Sinfonia Varsovia and violinist Liya Petrova (Thursday 4 December).
